Enterprise Document Automation

Overview

Enterprise Document Automation (EDA) is an rapidly evolving industry-wide requirement. Highly regulated service industries today need a robust Customer Communication Management (CCM) application to address the dynamic requirements of effective communication between enterprise and their customers. Such an application can enable enterprises to create, manage, retrieve and deliver documentation that can be accessed through multiple channels like e-mail, Web, print and mobile apps.

Are You Facing Challenges in Managing Legacy Document Solutions?

- Sustained software support
- Limited scope for automation and digitization
